A Remarkable Lady

Peggy was born, raised and educated (Simmons College '44) in Boston, MA. With a degree in Nutrition and Diet Therapy, she interned at Newark Medical Center, a requirement for membership in the American Dietetic Association. She was asked to remain on staff and there she stayed until the love of her life swept her away to New York. She switched careers to one of wife and mother as she and her husband raised three wonderful children. Once their kids were all in school she became a substitute teacher. She loved working with children and when asked to teach full time she agreed. She had to go back to school to earn education credits which she did, attending Columbia University, Montclair State and New York University. She taught Home Economics at New Milford High School and was immensely grateful to all the staff that saw her through the dark days of her husband's illness and death. Shortly after his death, she was diagnosed with breast cancer, faced a difficult surgery as it was not an early discovery, and a year of chemotherapy. Her doctor at that time was not encouraging, telling her she had 3 to 5 years to live. That was in 1981, twenty-nine years ago. She remained at New Milford High School until she retired in 1993.

But did she retire? No. She returned to her Alma Mater, Simmons College and taught Nutrition 101, filling in for a professor on sabbatical. She came back to New Milford, becoming a full-time volunteer. Her love for education prompted her to run for the Board of Education, a position that she continues to hold. She teaches the AARP Driver Safety Course, sits on the Boards of Friends of the Library and the Senior Center. She remains active at Simmons College where she is Secretary of the Alumnae Association Executive Board. Most weeks, when not traveling to see friends and family, she is playing with the Tennis for Life™ group at the Ridgewood Racquet Club.

At age 86, Peggy is vital, healthy, happy and involved. Her secret to living a happy life? "A couple of things - finding something to do with my life that I loved so much that I could never think of it as just a job. Teaching and interacting with children was my passion. I know how fortunate I was to get paid for doing something that I loved most to do. And the realization that life has many ends, but with each end is a new beginning."

Congratulations, Peggy. You are an inspiration to us all.
